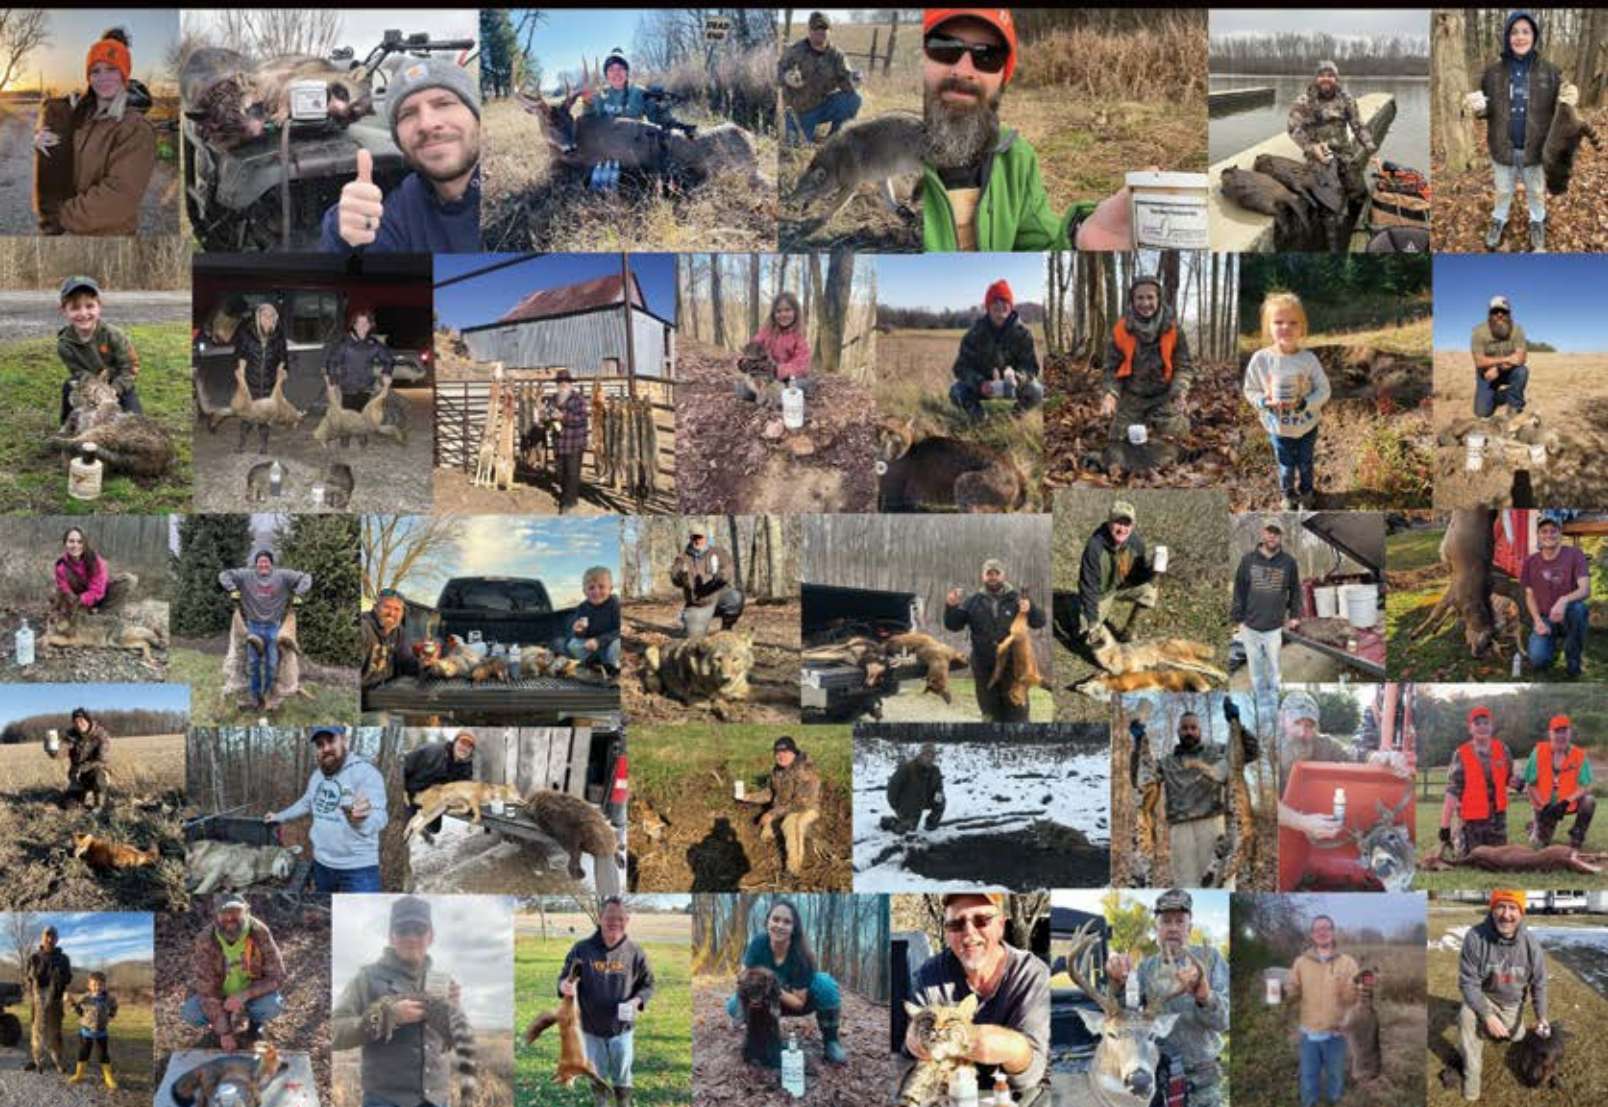
Charlie Masheck's Leatherwood Trapping Lure
and Top Dog Predator Bait



Fellow Trappers and Hunters,

Over the years, trappers have been under constant scrutiny and hunters to some extent. Trappers are a minority as compared to hunters which makes us low hanging fruit. It also makes us pretty much the first line of defense for all outdoor activities that are consumptive users of fish and wildlife.

Many of you are aware of the ballot initiative in Colorado that would ban mountain lion hunting and bobcat hunting and trapping. This is a much bigger issue than mountain lions and bobcats in a state that most of us will never hunt or trap in. If the hunters and trappers in Colorado are victorious, this will establish a precedent that we are organized and on the offensive. This hopefully will keep them from taking initiatives in other states. Most of this comes from a small minority of vocal people that try to persuade others with emotion and half-truths. It's always easier to be against something than to do the homework to find out the facts. Clearly science-based wildlife management is beneficial to the resource and allows for sustainable harvest! Let's all keep this momentum going. Join the Fur Takers of America, the National Trappers Association, and Sportsman's Alliance. It is more important now than it's ever been.

Justin's Trap House Podcast continues to be a favorite of many! It is available on all platforms including YouTube, Facebook, or you can listen through our website www.hoosiertrappersupply.com. The topics are all trapping related.

Hoosier Trapper Outdoors is in it's 13th season on You-Tube. I want to thank everyone for their support of the show. Don't forget our "How To" section on Hoosier Trapper Outdoors You-Tube page, it's always there for a quick reference.

2024 marks our 48th year in business. Without all of you none of this would be possible. We are very grateful for our customers. All of us here are dedicated to giving you the best possible customer service. We are a small family business; I am very fortunate to work with family and friends I consider family!

Have a great season and make some memories! And most importantly share your knowledge and time with someone who is interested in the outdoors!

HTS Deer Scents have withstood the test of time!
Trapper Quality! No 1 oz. Bottles!
Sold in Quantities Large Enough To Make A Difference!
No Gimmicks or Gadgets!

Trappers depend on scent, it is a necessity. It can be the difference between success and failure. Scent/Lure is literally responsible for attracting one of the wariest animals in nature "the coyote" to step in a 2 inch circle. I have been a trapper since 1973 and have formulated and tested lures/scent since the late 1970s. So, my point of all this, who better to put together a line of deer hunting scent? I make sure the urine we sell is of the utmost quality, 2nd to none. My most recent formulation "Lip Licker Deer Lure" has become our biggest seller. There is no such thing as a 100% magic formula, however I think I have come pretty close. Charlie Masheck

HTS Lip Licker Deer Lure - Our #1 Seller!

Take the guess work out of deer scent. Never again wonder if you are using the correct scent for the time of season you are hunting. Lip Licker uses Tonquin, a known deer attractant along with several other ingredients to make this a new and unique scent that is effective all season. Works on Bucks and Does - in and out of the rut. Lip Licker keeps, if you have some leftover - it is just as good next season. Pricing page 5.

HTS Whitetail Doe Urine

Good all around attractant and cover scent. Primarily used before and after the rut. Doe urine acts as a fear eliminator. It gives deer a calming effect, making them think other deer have been around. Works great as a cover scent. Pricing page 5.

HTS Whitetail Doe in Heat

Our biggest seller for hunting the rut. Use in pre-rut through post rut. Generally, when scrapes are starting to show up - that is a good indicator when to start using HTS Whitetail Doe in Heat. We have been told many times that bucks have literally come in down wind to investigate HTS Whitetail Doe in Heat. Pricing page 5.

HTS Dominant Buck Urine with Tarsal

Great to use when hunting the dominant buck in the area. Use in mock scrapes or existing scrapes as a territorial infringement lure. Warning! Only use if your goal is to hunt the dominant buck - HTS Dominant Buck Urine with Tarsal can spook smaller bucks. Pricing page 5.

HTS Whitetail Gland Lure

Made like a trapping lure would be made. Works any time of the season on both bucks and does. Because of the popularity and requests, we are offering HTS Whitetail Gland Lure in larger quantities. Pricing page 5.

Leatherwood Bear Lure

Designed for bear hunting over bait. This anise enhanced lure can be used in combination with bait or by itself. Squirt liberally on trees and bait to give the area an enticing smell no bear can resist. Comes in a handy squirt bottle for easy application. Pricing page 5. Also available, Sow Bear in Heat Urine page 5.

Deer Scents
HOOSIER TRAPPER SUPPLY

I have been around the "scent business" over 40 years. I have seen scent companies come and go. I have seen about every scent gimmick imaginable come along and go away. The bottom line is there is no replacement for good, quality, deer scent sold in large enough quantities to make a difference at a fair price! Period!
Charlie Masheck

Whitetail Deer Urine is collected from a certified inspected facility.

Deer are healthy and CWD free.

Several states have banned deer urine or deer urine based scents. To comply with this law and offer a top quality scent that will compare to anything natural, we have a completely Synthetic Form of Lip Licker and Doe in Heat. While Lip Licker in its original formula would probably be fine, the completely synthetic version eliminates any question at all.

Skunk Musk

Charlie Masheck's Leatherwood Creek Trapping Scents

Leatherwood Creek Trapping Scents made by Charlie Masheck have become the first choice and in many cases the only lure choice of successful trappers.

Black Gold Predator Lure—Leatherwood Creek Black Gold Predator Lure - Test results and trapline usage have made this lure one of my first choice, go to lures. Based on the classic formula of beaver castor and muskrat glands with additional layers of attractants to enhance maximum effectiveness! Great for coyotes, bobcats and fox.

Jett Fuel Predator Lure—Justin's lure! This is a curiosity type lure based on beaver tail oil. After several seasons of testing Jett Fuel was offered to the trapper last season; the results were amazing. As we say "Success Speaks for Itself"! Effective all season.

Coyote Contraband—Formerly Leatherwood Coyote Gland Lure —A gland-based lure that will hold the coyotes attention and cause him to work your set. Great on Flat sets, Urine Post sets, and Dirt Hole sets. This is a territorial type of lure.

Reynard's Addiction — Formerly Leatherwood Creek Fox Gland Lure —No serious fox trapper can be with-out this lure. Works well anytime of the season. Heavy based red fox gland lure. Foxes can't resist. Works on grey foxes also.

Vixen Elixir—Vixen Elixir was in the works and testing stage for a number of seasons. It has proven itself as a consistent, first choice, producer. It is a very complex lure that is attractive to all canines. Very attractive to Bobcats too. Top quality ingredients, with proper proportions and aging make this a lure that you cannot be without.

All Call Predator—The name says it! Excellent all season predator Lure, concocted with fox & coyote in mind. Extremely enticing, no canine can pass it up. Not just another option, but an important lure on any fox & coyote line.

First Frost—An excellent early season, warm weather lure for foxes & coyotes. Good for States with October or early November seasons. A relatively sweet smelling lure that won't cause canines to roll on your set. Can be used alone or with a mild smelling bait. Many trappers have reported great success with this lure all season long. Even in very cold temperatures. A lure that no one can be without!

Maximum Overdrive — Formerly Long Distance Predator Call Lure—Good for both foxes & coyotes! This is a great lure to use 10-15 feet away from your set in mild weather. In cold weather use directly at your set. Just enough skunk to make this a truly great long distance lure. No passing fox or coyote can pass this up. Can also be used in combination with gland lure.

Predator Seducer—A complicated lure that has proven hard to resist by any passing fox or coyote. Passion ingredients along with careful aging make this lure a must. Works well all season & holds up to cold weather.

Coyote Carnage—An all season predator call lure. A lure that has the ability to keep a predators interest at a maximum and one that they can't pass up. Works well on foxes also. Sure to become a first choice lure.

Predator Magnet—Another all season predator call lure. Not only a change up lure but a first choice lure as well. When setting numerous sets in an area a wide variety of smells, are important to catch trap shy animals. This lure is a complicated blend of ingredients aged to perfection. Sure to become a favorite.

Ringtail Round-Up—This lure is extra sweet and has a lasting scent that remains at the set. Will cause coon to investigate and work your set.

Tree Hugger Terminator—Formerly Beaver Gland Lure—An excellent castor lure. With the price of beaver you can't afford to be without this lure. Will work anywhere beaver lure is needed—works great on castor mound sets.

Stump Kicker—Formerly Beaver Call Lure—Still contains castor but has several added ingredients. This gives the beaver trapper an alternative and an added advantage to entice Mr. Chiseltooth.

Muskratlicious—An extra sweet muskrat lure that really calls the 'rats in. A good muskrat lure that speeds up time spent at a location—helps the rat trapper to be more efficient. Works good on coon also.

Finicky Feline—This lure was concocted with only Bobcats in mind. Although predators will check it out, Bobcats are the reason for this lure. Catnip along with several proven Bobcat attractants make this a lure that no Bobcat trapper can be without. Finicky Feline along with Long Distance Predator is a combination that can not be resisted by any passing Bobcat.

Test results on the trapline have been excellent. The base is bobcat and beaver meat blended with completely different ingredients to set this bait apart from all the rest. There is an underlying ingredient that is not detectable to the human sense. However, it is highly attractive to coyotes, bobcats, and foxes. Another option in the arsenal for the discriminating predator.

Raccoon Trappers - Trailing Scents for Coon

Use trailing scents along creek-banks, trails, etc. to attract coons to your set. Increase your odds by leading coons right to your trap. The sweet and fishy type may be used together to add extra enticement. Boost the profitability of your trapline. Trailing scents are used starting 10-20 feet from your set. Just make a trail with the scent to your set. Trailing scents come in handy flip-top squirt bottles. Why Pay More? No other lure needs to be used along with trailing scents. However, bait placed at the set will add interest.

Suggestions for Finding Places to Trap

Asking farmers for permission is an excellent place to start. Unlike deer hunting, trapping permission is generally easier to obtain. Many times helping them with a nuisance beaver, raccoon, etc. will give you the right to trap everything.

Talking to your deer hunting buddies may gain you ground as well. Many times they lease or own land to deer hunt. Most deer and turkey hunters want the predators controlled. Some may trap themselves, however most of them want someone else to trap. Offering to help them with control of predators and critters that would harm deer or prey on nesting bird eggs, many times is more than welcome.

A lot of states have state land that you can trap. Check the regulations for your state. For example, here in Indiana, most state fish and wildlife areas offer trapping rights through a draw system. State properties normally have quite a bit of hunting and fishing activity, trapping is generally overlooked.

National Forests and other federal ground. Here again, check your regulations. These are normally big tracts of land and offer plenty of trapping opportunities.

Suggestions for Selling Fur

Things have drastically changed over the years. Years ago, there were fur-buyers within driving distance for about everyone. As the fur market changed, the way to sell fur has changed too.

There are several options for marketing your catch. Local fur buyers are pretty scarce now a days, however if you are fortunate enough to have one nearby it is very convenient. Most buyers will buy fur on the carcass or just skinned. This is a real plus for those that don't have the time to skin, flesh and dry their skins.

Another option is trapping association fur sales. Most state associations have a fur sale. Depending on who shows up to buy, this can be a very good way to sell. Most will accept green fur along with finished fur. Generally, most sales are late in the season.

Some of the larger fur companies run fur buying routes. Groenewold Fur and Wool Company runs various routes throughout the country. Check out their website www.gfwco.com for further information.

Fur Harvesters Auction, Inc. is another option. This gives the trapper the ability to market fur on an international auction. Some states have a receiving agent that you can either drop your fur off or meet them on one of their pickup routes. Fur can be shipped as well. Fur for the auction does have to be "put up". Check out their website for details. www.furharvesters.com

Selling Raccoons, one trip I won't forget!

Years ago, I believe it was the winter of 1984, I was preparing for a trip to Pennsylvania to sell a load of raccoon skins that I had bought. At that time, I was a fur-buyer. Everything was bagged in burlap fur bags, loaded into the truck for the trip east. We left Indiana at 9:00 p.m. with snow swirling and dropping temperatures. The plan was to drive all night, arrive at our destination in the morning, sell the 'coons and drive home.

My brother-in-law was driving the early morning shift and I was trying to get some needed sleep. As the sun was coming up (on a very cloudy day), the truck hit a patch of ice, slid into the side ditch and took a half turn- leaving the truck completely upside down. Talk about a rude awakening! Of course, both of us hit our heads on the ceiling which was now the floor. Fortunately, neither one of us was hurt, other than a few bruises and my brother-in-law's pride. We rolled the windows down and crawled out to assess the situation. The windshield was crushed in on the passenger side, the camper shell door had come open and 'coon skins were falling out. The extent of the damage was a little hard to determine with wheels in the air and the cab and camper shell in the ditch.

It didn't take long for the state police to arrive. My brother-in-law had to endure a science lesson from the trooper (I think he was trying to impress the rookie that was with him) concerning the freezing point of water and how it affected the roads. Fortunately, science class was cut short by the arrival of the wrecker. The wrecker flipped the truck over to the proper position. Remarkably, the damage was not that bad. The truck started up on the first try, we recovered the raccoon skins, and we were on our way.

We stopped at the next exit, topped off the fluids that had leaked out and headed to our destination. While the 'coon were graded, a local mechanic repaired the side mirror and made a few minor repairs.

With the 'coons sold and check in hand, we headed home. The truck was moderately damaged, but functional. Only one door opened, and the passenger side windshield was crushed - outside of that no real inconveniences.

I will admit, I have one lasting condition/side effect from this experience- whatever you want to call it. I have a difficult time sleeping while someone else is driving.

For those of you who watch Hoosier Trapper Outdoors, that is why I am always driving!
